

Cortus AB announced in CleanTech Invest 2009

Europe Unlimited announced that Cortus AB has been selected to present by international investors at CleanTech Invest 2009 in Vienna on 8th October.

Sponsored by tecnet capital and Lower Austria, Cleantech Invest 2009 brings the best young cleantech companies in Europe together with international investors and corporate partners meeting to assess and score companies for investor readiness.

William Stevens CEO of Europe Unlimited commented 'Cleantech Invest 2009 was overwhelmed with applications from great companies, showing that cleantech is really shining in harder investment times. 2009 sees the launch of our own online community for high tech entrepreneurs, and we have already been staggered by the number of companies applying to get involved.'

Rolf Ljunggren, CEO of Cortus AB added "We are delighted to be part of Cleantech Invest 2009. It is a reward for the excellent technologies and hard work from a skilled team that has brought us to this stage. We look forward to connecting with a Europe-wide investor community."

Cleantech Invest 2009 is a qualifying event for the European Venture Summit, taking place in Dusseldorf on November 30th and also the Eurecan European Venture Contest Top100, from which 25 finalists will compete for €90,000 in Barcelona on 14th December.
